David

Thanks for getting back with me.....although it has improved a little, the main issue is still having 4 unrelated people living at 2325 Brett Drive. If the city would ever take care of that, then it would improve significantly. With that said, I don't think pursuing the No Parking is worthwhile at this time. Right now, I'm really the only house inconvenienced by the number of cars at 2325 Brett, so I'm sure the other neighbors that protested the No Parking in Nov. would argue the same again. I certainly want to be a good neighbor, so I don't think there's any reason to have this back on next weeks Agenda.....Thanks for checking with me!

Hi Jerry,

As you know, at the November 9, 2010 City Commission meeting, the Commission deferred for 60 days the request to establish No Parking along the north side of Brett Drive. My question to you is, has the parking situation improved or do you want to pursue the restriction along the north side of the street. Please let me know at your convenience.

Thanks,
