

SPRING BREAK CAMP ATTENDEES EXPERIENCE SNAG GOLF

Children who attended Lawrence Parks and Recreation Department summer camps took part in a SNAG (Starting New at Golf) golf clinic. The SNAG G-Ball program is designed to introduce people to golf. It is described as golf's version of T-Ball and is an activity-based program focusing on progressive and developmental play in a non-competitive format. John Morris, golf operations supervisor at Eagle Bend Golf Course, and Blaine Clark, LPRD intern, led the clinic for the children who attended camps organized by Duane Peterson, special events supervisor, and Annette Deghand, special populations supervisor. Sixty-four children took part in the spring break camps.

LPRD was one of 15 agencies in the country, and the only agency in Kansas, to receive a $12,000 grant to begin a SNAG Golf pilot program in 2011.
