Historical, neighborhood and cultural context

An independent institution that has instilled so much joy, passion and goodwill in the people of Kansas (and beyond), Mass Street Music has long committed itself to the preservation and restoration of musical instruments. For decades, it’s been successful despite the rise of big box stores and ecommerce. Owners Jim Baggett and Rick Dishinger, together with Greg Smith, founded the store in 1978, dedicating themselves to the crafting and repairing of acoustic instruments. The store has moved and evolved, occupying a relatively “quieter” part of Downtown Lawrence at 1347 Massachusetts Street since 1983. With small town atmosphere and world class service, it specializes in retail and repair. “There seems to be a general goodwill toward this kind of old-fashioned business. We get a lot of compliments,” he says on his website.

Music and the prairie have been intertwined for many years. My mural proposal, which is also sure to garner compliments from visitors to the store, is of a Flint Hills sunset during a prairie burn. Fires are started naturally or by man, both accidentally and intentionally as is the case during annual prairie burns. The Plains Indians started fires to attract game to new grasses. They sometimes referred to fire as the "Red Buffalo." Ranchers today start fires to improve cattle forage and for prairie health. To me, the prairie fires are a symbol of renewal and are necessary for the preservation of the prairie.

Making music is symbolic of our local community, and arguably part of its health. More broadly, each year Symphony in the Flint Hills hosts a large concert to heighten appreciation and knowledge of the Tallgrass Prairie in the Kansas Flint Hills. They work to build awareness for the last stand of tallgrass prairie ecosystem. The land and landscape are central to our culture. Symphony in the Flint Hills organizers answer the call to stewardship with education. They collaborate with musicians, artists, historians, scientists, and community members to advance both the traditions of yesterday and changes for the future. Symphony in the Flint Hills helps sustain the region’s unique culture and landscape. I feel Mass Street Music is an appropriate place for a mural celebrating traditions of preservation and restoration of the Kansas Flint Hills.

Dear Lawrence Cultural Art Commissioners,

As the art teacher at Bishop Seabury Academy, I am happy to support Louis Copt's mural proposal for Mass Street Music's southern, outdoor wall. There are multiple benefits to allowing the mural to proceed. To name a few:

- Louis Copt is a well-respected, local artist who is known for work that celebrates classic Kansas landscape imagery. Who better to paint a mural near our iconic downtown Lawrence?

- The location of the mural is catty-corner to Liberty Memorial Middle School. Students there will be able to witness, along with the whole neighborhood, the task of mural painting from its beginning stages all the way to its completion.

- The mural will beautify and enrich the visual interest of the intersection. For visitors coming to town from the south, an eye-catching mural will be a welcoming sight, adding to Lawrence's already strong reputation for supporting the arts.

Thanks to Louis's willingness to reach out, some of my students will get to visit the site and be introduced to the whole mural-making process. The chance for students to pick the brains of working artists will be awesome!

I appreciate all that you do to support the art scene in Lawrence.

Best regards,

Laura Porter
Dear Lawrence Cultural Arts Commission,

I am writing to show my support for Louis Copt’s proposed mural on the south wall of Mass Street Music. I live and work on Massachusetts Street. I am a middle school teacher at Liberty Memorial Central Middle School. My third-floor classroom faces Massachusetts Street and has a great view of the building. I live two blocks south of Mass Street Music, where my son is a regular customer.

Louis has shared his ideas for the mural with me, and I am excited. The art will add color and beauty to the corner. I know my students will enjoy watching the mural take shape. Louis plans to invite a small group of students to the site, as the artists prepare the site and begin their work. Liberty Memorial Central prides itself on the rich artistic history of our building. We are fortunate to have a Wayne Wildcat mural in our building, entitled Central Time. Allowing some of our students to engage with the artists will enrich their learning.

During our short story unit, I teach a Toni Cade Bambara story called War of the Wall. The main characters of the story are angry when an outsider comes to town and starts painting on their beloved neighborhood wall. The characters plan to deface the artist’s work until they discover the mural is a dedication to the people of their neighborhood. After we read the story, we study the murals in Lawrence, the Wall of Respect movement, and talk about the value of community art. This mural outside our classroom window will add to our discussion.

I am personally familiar with Louis Copt’s artwork, and I am thrilled to have a view of his mural from my classroom window. I enthusiastically support this project.

Thank you for your efforts to promote art in the Lawrence community.

Sincerely,

Dear Lawrence Cultural Arts Commissioners:

I am the Acting President of the Barker Neighborhood Association and I am writing in support of the mural Mass Street Music has proposed Louis Copt to create for their east wall. The mural will be close to our neighborhood’s northwest corner.

The prairie fire is one of Mr. Copt's iconic themes, and beloved by so many people in our community.

I am grateful to Mass Street Music for commissioning art for all to enjoy on their building. They have my enthusiastic endorsement. I think the proposed mural is well aligned with your Commission’s mission to encourage the artistic and cultural activities of the community, and the theme fits well with land stewardship in the county.

Thank you for your service in promoting arts and culture in our city.

Sincerely,

Lisa Harris-Frydman

Dear Lawrence Cultural Arts Commissioners:

As members of Barker Neighborhood Association (BNA), we're delighted to offer our support for Louis Copt's outdoor mural on the south side of Mass Street Music. We're particularly pleased that the mural will feature one of Louis's beloved prairie fires. To be sure, it will be stunning. Equally important, it truly will be a one-of-a-kind Kansas welcome to passersby on their way toward downtown.

What a great opportunity to transform a beige brick wall into a colorful piece of public art on one of our city's busiest intersections. We can't wait!

Best regards,

Andy Bloomer and Mary Wharff, BNA Past-President

"Past, Present, and you are the Future" 2021. Ewing Marion Kauffman School, Kansas City, MO.

This mural's design was inspired and informed by the high school students at Kauffman School. It depicts 5 figures that have been an integral part of our nation's social change movement, pioneers and visionaries that have used their voices and actions to advocate for justice. At the center is Amanda Gorman, our nation's youngest poet laureate, as well as the youngest poet to read at a presidential inauguration. Her words served as inspiration, solace and a call-to-action for millions of Americans during the social upheaval of the COVID-19 pandemic. To her left is Claudette Colvin, who at 15 was the first to refuse to give up her seat to a white person on the bus, (before Rosa Parks). To Amanda's right is Emma Gonzalez, a survivor of the Parkland school shooting, who has become an advocate for gun control and school safety. Behind the central figures are the silhouettes of Cesar Chavez and Ruth Bader Ginsberg, who have passed the torch of justice onto the next generation. The central aim of the mural is to inspire our nation's youth to find their empowerment, their identity and their unique voice through the context of the ongoing fight for social justice during this difficult and transformative era of human history.

It stands for the strength of the people from all the different Latin countries that have found their way to Kansas City and made it home. It represents the heart of the Latin culture that beats on no matter where it finds itself. It is a celebration of community.

Above that is the Cattleya Orchid which is the national flower of Brazil. Behind Frida’s head is the Blue Passion Flower, the national flower of Paraguay. The large flower to her right is the Dahlia which is Mexico’s national flower. The skyline in dark blue in the right foreground is Buenos Aires and the turquoise skyline behind it is that of Asunción.

“Raíces/Roots” 2021. Cafe Corazon 2, Kansas City, MO.

This work, completed for a Latinx owned coffee shop in Kansas City, honors the Indigenous roots of coffee, mate, and blue corn. The mural reminds viewers that these plants are gifts from indigenous populations, and that their origins should never be forgotten. Behind the woman’s head is an Aztec calendar, which represents the passage of time, eternity and continuity. The mural is an homage to the divinity found in reconnecting with nature and your cultural roots.

"Turtle Island" 2021. Coast to Coast Pub, Private Business Commission, Kansas City, MO.
"Beautiful Migration" 2019. Kansas city, MO

"Beautiful migration" is for and about women of color and is dedicated to our mothers. In these three women, we wish to celebrate diversity and show we exist. Asunta is a beautiful woman from Ghana. Her parents ran away from war in her country. She lost her mother to the war. She reunited with her older brother after 20 years, but her dad returned to Ghana where he owns land. Every year she organizes and runs a fundraiser so she can send money back to her country to help the people in her father’s community. She is also saving money to open a hospital near the village because the nearest hospital is hours away. Sienna is the daughter of Vietnamese immigrants. While struggling to figure out her identity as a Vietnamese and American woman, she is still working hard, supporting herself and going to school in Chicago. In her family she is the first to graduate and first to go to college. Naomi is Chicana, born in KC. Her childhood up to now has been very rough. Her mom went to jail and she has no dad, but despite her hardships she perseveres and is always protecting and providing for her little sister. She wants to become an artist and a veterinarian when she grows up. These three women remind us of our mothers:
