1. Program Description

JAMS (Jobs in the Arts Make Sense) is Van Go’s year-round, innovative youth employment program for at-risk youth ages 14 – 21 that was developed to help fill the existing gap in social services for this age group in Lawrence. It is not designed to create artists, but instead uses art as the vehicle to help youth gain protective factors such as job skills, life skills and economic resources needed for success.

Van Go youth are referred by community partners who identify youth living in poverty, involved in the juvenile justice system, in foster care and at risk for truancy, teen pregnancy or drug/alcohol use. Van Go interviews and hires youth year-round to create works of art purchased or commissioned by the public; this income supports program sustainability. Many art pieces, such as murals and benches are then displayed publicly to provide affirming recognition to youth.

In addition to teaching important job skills such as task completion, punctuality, responsibility, and teamwork, JAMS includes “life skills” training to increase understanding of drug and alcohol abuse, domestic violence and healthy life choices, curbing risk for alcohol abuse or other unhealthy behaviors. These sessions also connect youth with related community resources such as DCCCA, Headquarters, Healthcare Access and the Douglas County Health Department.

JAMS prevention programming mimics the Communities That Care model (Hawkins and Catalano), which is the prevention approach adopted by the state of Kansas. Van Go incorporates three steps described in the CTC model that are essential to program success:

1) Provide opportunities for involvement – Participating children are involved in the planning and creation of original artwork as they work with professional teaching artists over an 8-week period.
2) Enhance the development of cognitive and social skills – All participants learn, practice, and are evaluated on effective and respectful communication with their peers and staff (i.e., not interrupting others, expressing frustrations appropriately).
3) Recognize participants for skillful performance – All Van Go projects culminate with a public show or performance of the work the participants have created.

Additionally, Van Go uses proven effective strategies documented in the 1999 nationwide YouthArts study, sponsored in part by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. The study shows that arts programs for at-risk kids deter delinquent behavior, reduce court referrals, improve participants’ ability to complete tasks, and improve communication skills. Many of the best practices recommended in the study are key components of Van Go programming:

- Programming that meets at least twice a week for at least two hours: Van Go doubles this recommendation, meeting with youth four days a week, for a total of 10 hours a week in the spring and fall and 22 hours a week in the summer.
- Collaboration among various agencies: Van Go community partners include Bert Nash Community Mental Health Center, Douglas County Youth Services, Lawrence/Douglas County Housing Authority, Chamber of Commerce, USD #497 and others.

- Apprentice relationships: Van Go youth are mentored by on-staff artists who guide them through the process of working with clients and creating professional art projects.
- Active student participation in public performance or exhibition: Van Go youth create art projects that are permanently displayed in the public arena—murals, benches, painted newspaper racks and more.
- Low staff/participant ratio: Van Go youth benefit from a staff/participant ratio of 1:4.

Van Go provides in-depth life changing services. The low staff to participant ratio enables the Van Go staff to mentor our JAMS participants one on one.

The services provided by Van Go are extremely unique and are not provided by any other agency in Douglas County. Van Go is the only arts-based social service agency in Kansas and is the largest employer of at-risk youth in Lawrence. The JAMS program serves at-risk youth only and specializes in their development. Many of our participants are alienated from their school environment or families and have no outlets for positive self-expression; these are youth for whom anonymity, failure and low expectations are routine. Van Go helps them by addressing risk factors associated with substance abuse.

2. Needs Assessment

Local research has shown that substance abuse, for which Van Go youth are at heightened risk, is higher among Douglas County youth than among youth statewide. Kansas Communities That Care 2008 data indicated substance abuse levels above state averages among Douglas County 10th graders:

- 37.3 % reported using alcohol in the past 30 days
- 14.9% reported using marijuana in the past 30 days
- 13.5% reported being drunk or high at school in the last year
- 7.4% reported selling illegal drugs in the last year.

Other research by Drs. Hawkins and Catalano has demonstrated that Van Go services lessen the risk that youth will engage in self-destructive behavior. Van Go is the only organization in Douglas County that performs these essential tasks:

1) Targets high-risk youth for direct social services, using the arts as a vehicle.
2) Employs high-risk youth year-round, providing them with opportunities for leadership, skill-building and employment.
3) Engages youth in a teamwork process to solve problems and complete art projects.
4) Connects alienated youth to their community through visible public arts projects.
3. Outcomes

Process Outcome: 9,200 hours of direct service, including Life Skills sessions on drug and alcohol prevention, will be provided to 90 at-risk youth, ages 14-21.
Behavioral Outcome: In 2010, 85% of the participants will show an improvement in their overall workplace evaluation scores conducted at weeks 2 and 8.
Impact Outcome: By 2011, 70% of JAMS graduates will have made a successful transition to the workforce, as measured by follow-up interviews.
Outcome Evaluation: The evaluation tool used by Van Go to measure the extent to which its constituents are learning clear standards is the Worksite Evaluation form. This tool measures the elements of the program most essential for successful completion of JAMS and in life. The JAMS Program Director evaluates the youth at the end of weeks 2 and 8 and shares results with each individual; cash bonuses are given to those who have shown improvement, and strategies for improvement are provided for those who have not yet met the program’s objectives.

4. Coordination

Van Go works with community agencies to ensure coordination of prevention services and to avoid duplication. To minimize fragmentation, local partnerships have been formed and include collaboration with these agencies:

Bert Nash Community Mental Health Center - WRAP social workers refer students to Van Go.
Douglas County Youth Services – DCYS staff and juvenile court personnel refer youth to the JAMS program.
The Lawrence/Douglas County Housing Authority – Because many of our low-income youth live in public housing, the Housing Authority sponsors Summer JAMS apprentice-artists’ salaries for their residents.
Chamber of Commerce - Lynne Green, Van Go Executive Director, has worked with the Chamber’s Director of Economic Development and served on a task force charged with creating vocational programming in Lawrence.
USD #497 - School counselors and social workers refer and recruit students, and relay grades, attendance and discipline problems so a coordinated effort can be made on behalf of each child. JAMS participants can earn high school credit for their participation.
Other agencies - Van Go has also been involved with the Arts Roundtable and the After-School Alliance to look for ways to expand options for at-risk youth.

5. Organizational Capacity

Van Go has a Board of Directors of highly respected community leaders who help with program development, evaluation, and fundraising. Staff members include a full-time Executive Director, JAMS Program Director, Art Director and Development Director; a three-quarters-time Social Worker; and a half-time Financial Director. In addition, Van Go has two full time Vista volunteers on staff responsible for marketing and gallery operations.

6. Budget

Van Go requests $60,000 from the alcohol tax fund in 2010. This increase of 27% from 2009 funding is a response to planned organization growth in 2010 to serve more youth in Van Go’s newly renovated, 12,000-square-foot facility. The facility will triple utilized square footage, increasing general operations costs and allowing Van Go to reach 32% more at-risk youth. The organization has received Alcohol Tax funds for the past 10 years and has proven its capacity to effectively use those funds. Van Go has budgeted support from this fund in its 5-year strategic plan.

Van Go’s current 2009 budget is $756,968, with broad-based funding described in the following table. Future sources of funding include our continued funding from local, state and federal agencies, private foundations, private and corporate donations. In addition, Van Go annually receives thousands of dollars in goods and services donated in-kind, including 3,000 volunteer hours from a KU School of Social Welfare intern, graduate students from the art departments of Emporia State University and KU, two full time Vista volunteers and many other community members.
