George Walker was born in 1873 in Lawrence, Kansas. His first acting job took him to San Francisco where he met Bert Williams in 1893. As a team, their big break came in 1896 in Victor Herbert's musical Gold Bug. The musical flopped, but the songs performed by Williams and Walker were audience hits. They began playing Koster and Bial's in New York City in 1897, billing themselves as the "Tabasco Senegambians" or sometimes as the "Two Real Coons." About this billing Walker said:

How to get before the public and prove that ability we might possess was a hard problem for us to solve. We thought that as there seemed
