

Homeless Point in Time Count 2015 A Snapshot of Homelessness in Douglas County

Beginning at midnight on January 28, 2015, a survey document was dispersed in Lawrence and Douglas County that attempted to gather a point-in-time count for those defined as “literally homeless” individuals and families, which are those persons living in emergency shelters, transitional housing or in places not meant for human habitation such as in cars or on the streets . The survey was designed to gather information for one 24-hour period, and the data was collected for that specific 24-hour time period over the course of three days. The surveys were administered and the data was gathered as a result of a collaborative effort by various area agency staff members and case managers who primarily work with the Lawrence/Douglas County homeless population. In Douglas County, 296 “literally homeless” adults and children were identified. While it is likely that this number is less than the true number of homeless in the city and in the county, these findings are a valuable planning tool to improve the response to homelessness in Douglas County and are collected biennially.

Homeless in Lawrence/Douglas County 2013 and 2015 Comparison

KEY POINTS

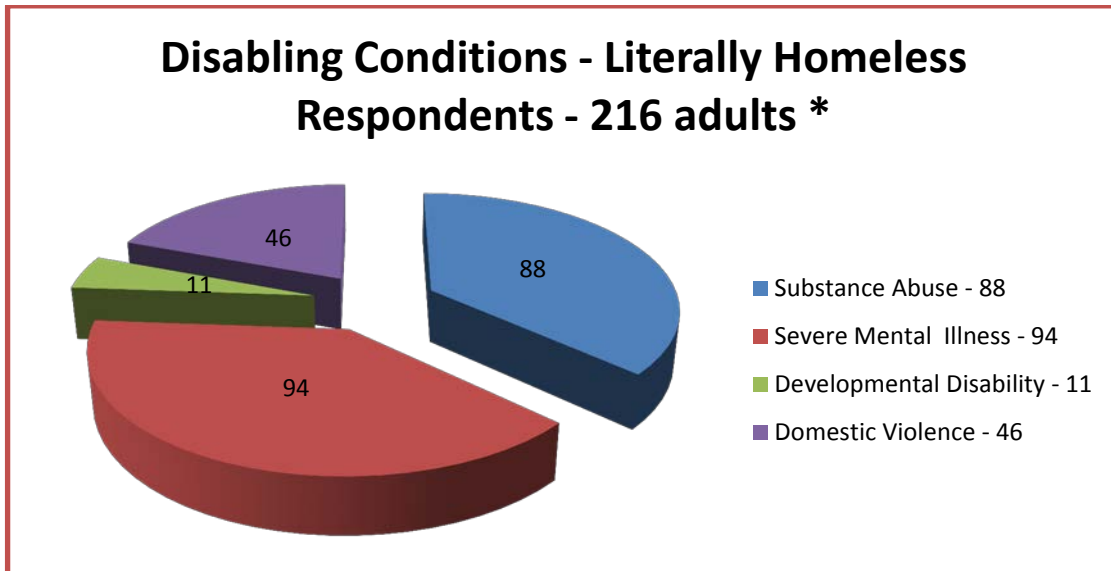

Changes in homelessness from the 2013 Point-In-Time count to the 2015 count:

- ✓ The number of literally homeless residents counted increased from 223 in 2013 to 296 in 2015. This is due to possibly an increase in households, but also better counting methodology and stronger data analysis.
- ✓ In 2013, 49% of the literally homeless adult respondents were female. In 2015, this number fell to 48%.

296 Lawrence/Douglas County Residents were homeless on January 28, 2015:

Challenges to understanding the picture of Homelessness in Lawrence and Douglas County:

- ✓ The point-in-time count is required by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) every two years. The point-in-time count is just that: A point-in-time snapshot. It should be acknowledged that while this presents a number going forward, it may not be indicative of the total extent of the problem as seen by local professionals and their agencies. This count was a partnership with many agencies and volunteers in Lawrence and Douglas County. The definition of homelessness, used for the purposes of this Point in Time count, was the HUD definition of sheltered and unsheltered homeless. HUD “sheltered” is defined as: persons residing in emergency shelters, domestic violence shelters, and transitional housing that originally came from shelter or streets. HUD “unsheltered” is defined as: persons residing in cars, abandoned buildings, alleyways, parking garages, under bridges, etc.
- ✓ The Lawrence Unified School District (USD 497) indicates that there are additional students in the district that qualify as homeless under the McKinney-Vento Act, which includes families that are doubled-up or staying with family or friends. For this point-in-time count, doubled up families were not able to be counted because they did not meet the HUD definition of homeless. With varying definitions of homelessness used by agencies, it is difficult to paint a true picture of the extent of the problem.
